

E2

Success Story #304

Graybill's Tool & Die, Inc. operates as a full service jobber in the business of providing complete design and build of special machines, manufacturing systems, machine controls, panel building, prototypes, custom tools, dies, jigs, fixtures and precision machined parts. Graybill's design department stands ready to help meet your needs for equipment design and build. Whether you have just a concept, some preliminary drawings, or even a complete machine or prior design you need altered or replicated, our design staff is experienced in making your idea become a reality. They specialize in single piece prototypes to short production runs. They have a hard earned, long standing reputation for quality and service which makes them very proud.

"E2 has become a valued tool within our organization."

The Results ...So Far:

"Our employees experienced a very short learning curve. We now can navigate to any area in a "click" or two. This is very handy when a customer calls and you need to access certain info and can easily achieve this while you are talking without missing a beat."

Why did Graybills Tool & Die Choose E2?

For years we ran a DOS based operational system and gathered all of our job and employee attendance information manually. To retrieve any type of information, whether it was sales, production, or inventory you had to scroll through screen after screen to get to where you needed to be. Changing operational systems is usually a situation that is entered into with caution and reluctance. It was time for us and we're glad we did.
